A: I finally found out what was wrong. The download link was redirecting to the wrong IP. I just copied the correct IP from the header from the download page and it went through flawlessly. Q: How do you create a multi-tier ASP.NET application from the ground up? I want to create a project that deploys to different machines depending on the tier. I don't know what this would be called, but I want to create something similar to a "Fusebox" in ASP.NET. What is the best way to do this? A: You could write a web farm. To my knowledge, you could also write a web farm in asp.net. Are you really looking to have any sort of load balancing or fault tolerance? That's a lot of work. If you don't want load balancing, but are just looking for a different way of doing it, you could build a farm of web servers and load balance amongst them. This way you only have to run the number of server farms necessary. If you need to just spin up new server farms on demand as they are needed, I'd use something like web farms. News The Hawthorne Heights member, whose band features a member of Our Lady Peace, has collaborated with a number of popular artists including Mat Kearney, Jillian Harris and Brandy, and has previously toured with bands like Blink-182, Hellogoodbye, Simple Plan and more. MTV News caught up with Ben Berki, who opened up about the current state of the music business, releasing his own rock album (see below), and what it was like to open for the band Pearl Jam during their "Rattle and Hum" tour. He spoke about what it was like to collaborate with a group as revered as Pearl Jam, and joked that he would have ended up being their tour manager. Read more: MTV News | The Music BusinessQ: Maximal number of primes below 10^n According to a numerologist, who's name I don't know, the number of primes below 10^n is n, where n is a positive integer. Is this statement true? I'd be surprised if it isn't, but I don't know how to go about verifying it. A: We have more than two factors below $
